

Pam, the Wicked plant

Paula Fernández

Illustrated by Poly Bernatene

I'm very vain and sinister
And I show you with all the honors, my shark teeth, my petals,
all with shiny colors.

My enchanting charms
they serve to attract,
with no shame nor permission
any bug I can attack.

I wash my face with dewdrops
I polish early my teeth,
very clean and shiny
and as a hand a used my leaf.

They're so white that is shocking they feel like working with no guilt neither mercy that worm I will suck in.

Suddenly, I'm still.
I look closely a mosquito,
my stomach found out that I'm hungry now.

Mute I stay while I ambush the perfect second I seize and in one big good bite,
I eat the unfortunate.

My jaw relaxes now
at night I sleep quietly, when the moon shines up high all innocent, I rest silently.

Unless some unlucky cricket sings loud and awakes me.
Then in the middle of the dark
I eat him without mercy.